NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE WAR.

-By way of New-Orleans we have Union ac-The Rebel reports alleged that they (the Rebels) were beaten on the first day, in consequence of the non-arrival of the ram Atkansas, but that subsequently they had captured the town and all the Union forces. As our accounts are up to Thursday, they effectively dispose of this fiction. The facts are these: Learning that our forces at Baton Rouge were greatly we kened by sickness, Gen. Breckinridge gathered about the usual proportion, or double the number, got the ram to promise assistance, and undertook the capture of the place. He had two Louisiana, two Mississippi, six Kentucky, two Tennessee and one Alabams-in all 13 regiments, 13 cannon and a arge guerrilla force. We had the 4th and 30th Massachusetts, 7th Vermont, 6th Michigan, 14th Maine, 9th Connecticut, and 4th Wisconn-seven regiments and three batteries. The attack was made at 4 a. m., and a hotly-contested battle continued until 10 o'clock, when the Rebels retreated in great disorder. We, lost according to the best accounts, from 200 to 300 killed and wounded, a most valuable officer (Brig.-Gen. Williams) being killed. The Rebels lost many more than we It is said that Gen. Lovell was killed-pot Mamfield Lovell, but his brother. A General Ruggles is also reported killed, and Breck inridge is said to have lost his right arm. A private letter says that our men buried 257 Rebels on the field, and that they acknowledge a loss of 600. The same letter says Gen. Allen, Robel, was killed, and Gen. Clark mortally wounded -dying next day. The ram A-kansas was attacked next morning by the Union gunboat Essex, set on fire by our shells, and atterty destroyed. The Rebel story that she got out of order and was blown up by been made to-day on miscellaneous collaterals at her crew is fal-e; she was farly and squarely 3 P cent. The sum total is-Breckinridge went out to take Baton Rouge with a force more than double that to oppose him; he was fairly and severely whipped, losing seve al field officers, and the famous ram Arkansas was destroyed the next day.

-There was recently a village named Denaldsonville, formerly the capital of Louisiana, on the Miscome infested with Retel guer illas, who made a business of firing upon Union boats, even upon transports filled with sick and wounded, the Captain of the sloop-of-war Brooklyn, on the 9th inst. sent word to have the women and children removed, and the next day Donaldsonville was obliterated by fire. The cure was severe, but the only remedy that would have the desired effect.

-As we announced on Thursday last in Tax Tai-BUSE, Gen. Mct. o in's army has been making a most important movement. As it is now completed, we are at liberty to state positively as we then indicated o ly, that this movement was the transfer of the entire army from Harrison's Landing and the swamps of the Chickshoming to the other side of the Penjusula. Our letters and disparches give a complete secount of this important movement.

-A complete return of the Rebel force engaged at the battle of Cedar Mountain shows 48 regiments, 3 battalione, and I battery of infantry; 4 regiments and I battalion of cavalry; 13 batteries of artitlery, in all 58 gues: total infantry, 21,613; cavalry, 2,300; artillery, 1.000-whole number of men, 24,913.
